MESSAGE FROM:

Senate President Arnold Maltz

More Info

The Senate committees and task force continue to work very hard for our faculty. Thanks to the Online Education Task Force you can take a survey and provide feedback regarding online education at ASU. Senate representatives continue to provide feedback on our general education curriculum. Also this month, we hosted the Arizona Board of Regents for our annual breakfast, and traveled to Seattle Washington for a PAC 12 academic leadership meeting. On the research front we are working with OKED on the increasing availability and usefulness of high performance computing at ASU, as well as potential support for publishing fees.

Finally, there is ongoing work on the “nuts and bolts” of faculty life, including teaching support, benefits processing, and student withdrawal behaviors. As always if you have comments, questions, or concerns, please contact the Senate Office.

Online Education Task Force Survey

The Senate Online Education Task Force (OETF) is collecting faculty perspectives on a variety of topics surrounding online education at ASU. If you have not yet participated please click the link below. Faculty and AP feedback is critical to the success of this group. Click Here to Take the Survey.

Online Math Placement Tests to be Proctored

Based on a recommendation made from the Senate Student-Faculty Policy Committee, online math placement tests will now be proctored by Respondus Monitoring. Technical issues are currently being ironed out but the system should be up and running soon.

In case you didn't know

Unit level Senator elections should be occurring over the next couple of months.
