The Boyer 2030 Commission

“The world is a very different place than it was in 1998, and that is why a new Boyer Commission was needed to recommend ways to guarantee excellence and equity in undergraduate education for today’s college students.”

— Barbara R. Snyder, co-chair of the Boyer 2030 Commission and President of the Association of American Universities

Congratulations to Nathaniel Ross, ASU's newest Rhodes Scholar.

Senior Nathaniel Ross has been awarded the coveted Rhodes Scholarship to pursue postgraduate studies at the University of Oxford. Ross is one of only 32 American Rhodes recipients for the 2023 application cycle and one of only three students representing public universities. He is the first ASU student awarded an American Rhodes Scholarship in more than 20 years.

At Oxford, Ross will study comparative social policy, after which he will attend law school and specialize in disability law. His long-term objective is to shape disability policy as an attorney-advisor for a national disability advocacy organization, federal agency or global non-governmental organization.

ASU recertified by Excelencia in Education with 2022 Seal of Excelencia

As part of our path to becoming an Hispanic Serving Institution (HSI), ASU was named one of the nine inaugural recipients of the Seal of Excelencia in 2019 and was recertified in 2022. This recognition from Excelencia in Education commends ASU's commitment to accelerating Hispanic and Latino student success by showing intentionality and impact in service to students. ASU is proud of these distinctions, and will continue to create an environment that is conducive to Hispanic and Latino students' success at the university and beyond.

Thank you to all 2022-2023 Faculty and Academic Professional Senators and leadership for your service to ASU.
