Senate President Brenda Hosley

The start of the academic year brings each of us a hyper-focus that allows us to pursue individual goals and aspirations. I want to ask each of you however, to take a few moments today to acknowledge and engage any new faculty members or academic professionals within your unit. This brief moment can mean a lot to a person and help with the ongoing challenge of starting a new job and meeting a new peer group. To this end, the University Senate would like to extend a warm welcome to all new faculty members here at ASU and want to let each of you know that the Senate is a resource that is always available.

Additionally, I am happy to report that 100% of the Senate’s committees are staffed and will begin working on a variety of topics during this academic year. Stay tuned for updates on their important work.

What is a Request for Consultation (RFC)?

A RFC is a request made by any faculty member, unit, college, school or administrator that requests the Senate to evaluate a topic or provide faculty representation to aid in decision-making and policy development.

RFC can be handled consultatively and answered/addressed immediately, or they can be dealt with more formally by working through the committee structure and the Senate to produce a motion that recommends specific change, that if adopted, would apply to the entire university.
