Senate President Brenda Hosley

Greetings and Happy New Year from the Senate office. I am happy to report that the standing committees worked very hard during the fall semester and are preparing several motions that will come forward for Senate review later this semester.

The Senate's request for consultation (RFC) process that was instituted last spring has been a huge success. Administration, faculty, academic professionals, and students are consulting with the Senate on a broad range of topics. A full report of the RFCs submitted, and any resolutions will be given at the end of this semester.

As we open a new semester, I ask that you continue to help me in welcoming any new faculty, staff, and students to our ASU family. As I have mentioned before, reaching out to these individuals is very important in helping them during this time of transition.

Upcoming Senate Elections

In the coming months the University Senate will be executing annual campus elections for the following Senate positions:

- Campus Presidents-elect.
- Committee on Academic Freedom and Tenure representation*.
- Governance Grievance Committee representation*.
- Academic Professional Grievance Committee representation*.

When you see the election notice, please review all candidates carefully so that you will be prepared to cast an informed vote for these very important faculty and AP positions.

**Depending on the campus needs, elections may not be needed for every position on every campus.*
